Public accounting only teaches you accounting

I was lucky to have people that I worked with on the finance side or met in my network, who taught me and let me shadow them. This expanded my role opportunities exponentially.

Investors are people too

The first times I presented to the Board, I was so nervous... but they are human and they are there to help you. I got 2 jobs through this network.

Photography allows me to slow down and be in the moment...

I finally figured out that it's important to find a balance in work...I remember the first time after I left PwC walking to the train on Park Avenue and realizing they have tulips out here.
