Don't be afraid to make mistakes

You don't have all the oversight that you had in public accounting... a lot of times it goes right to the executives.

So, check your own work, but don't be afraid to try something new.

Take your blinders off

See the bigger picture beyond the debits and credits, so that you can push real change for a scalable foundation.

And then sell it. You have to sell your @$$ off internally to be good at your job if you're changing processes.
